

Service Overview

Integration Service

NEXCOM MA products lines can accommodate all your requirements of motion devices and I/O devices. According to your request, we will prepare a solution based on "best performance" and "cost effective" 2to achieve your application.

Real-Time Motion Control Application on RTX

Beside the regular RTX training, we also offer full technical support when user development their own real-time application.

Motion Control Software Service

Our customers can expect a service from NEXCOM that ranges from consultation, development up to production. For advance application, you may need programming your own software driver. In this regard, we provide lots examples to demonstrate how you accomplish your application.